

SGI® Global Developer Program

The Power of Partnership

The SGI Global Developer Program is a program with geographic flexibility that enhances developers' knowledge of the SGI® platforms and SGI's business relationships with our developer community. There is no membership fee to join the program!

SGI Commitment to Innovation and Discovery

For nearly two decades, SGI has set the pace for high-performance computing, visualization and storage. A long history of technological leadership and expertise, combined with far-reaching industry alliances, makes SGI uniquely qualified to deliver integrated solutions that create new standards for research, effectiveness and performance. SGI is looking for developers that share this vision and therefore has created a program that encourages a real synergy for success.

Opportunity

We invite all developers to join our program as a Developer Online member. Members receive access to our web site filled with technical information, online resources, and basic business development ideas.

For developers looking to develop joint business opportunities with SGI, we offer two premier membership levels that provide benefits related to the development and sale of your products:

Developer Plus for Linux®

For developers who are specifically interested in developing products for general distribution and commercial resale on the Linux® OS. Benefits include:
